

AMS is there when you need us most.

Joanne Bennett, aircraft manager and pilot of a Merlin III, recently sent this testimonial regarding AMS General Manager, Matthew Schulz and his maintenance crew :

“We had a generator failure en route to Mobile, AL and diverted to Tupelo, MS. Matt and his crew dropped everything to help us out. They troubleshot the problem immediately, ordered the part and had it installed in less than 24 hours (even working extra hours over the weekend). The cost was very reasonable and they were very friendly and professional. I highly recommend them for your aircraft maintenance needs.”

When describing the maintenance crew and employees of AMS, Edward Delmore, Chief of Police in Gulf Shores, AL and pilot of a Piper Cherokee said:

“During a recent flight, an in-flight loss of power resulted in a declared emergency and a safe landing in Tupelo. AMS crew had monitored the radio traffic with ATC, met me on the ramp and began to diagnose the problem. A few hours later, not only had the cause of the issue been determined, but it had also been repaired. The next day I flew home in a perfectly running aircraft. I would also be remiss if I didn't mention that the entire staff at AMS was not only competent but friendly too!”

“We were especially impressed with the care and attention AMS gave us in helping to resolve our problem.”

Aircraft Maintenance Specialists

AMS aims to provide our customers with the best possible service at a reasonable price.

Matt Schulz, General Manager

A Commitment to Excellence

AMS of Tupelo is passionate about providing the best service possible to our customers. We know it is just as important to provide “on-time” quality service to the smallest piston client as it is to the largest turbine client.

Maintaining a positive attitude and a friendly demeanor is a large part of the culture at our company. We witness the effects of maintenance issues on our clients and know that the right attitude at a bad moment is what sets our service apart from the others.

We have an experienced staff, proper tooling and excellent facilities. Our proven track record makes choosing AMS of Tupelo easy. Why would you go anywhere else?

I invite you to call me so we can discuss how the AMS of Tupelo team can help you.

AMS of Tupelo is based at the Tupelo Regional Airport in Tupelo Mississippi. We serve the aviation community from Jackson to Memphis and everywhere in between with quality dependable aircraft maintenance. Our 10,000 square foot hangar and more than 2,000 square feet of additional shop and office space is equipped to handle nearly any general aviation aircraft.

Qualified Technicians >>>

AMS technicians are highly skilled and well qualified. All of our technicians have undergone detailed training. Additionally, each technician has specific training on the procedures our piston and turbine clients require.

All AMS employees are required to undergo extensive background checks as well. FBI background checks and routine drug testing are part of what insures AMS hires only the best suited candidates.

If you need detailed information on our employees, our training program or our drug testing do not hesitate to contact us by phone or email. We are actively seeking new clients.

Quality Service >>>

AMS has a wide array of service capabilities across multiple aircraft platforms.

We provide annual inspections and phase inspections on aircraft ranging from Cessna 152's to Citation Jets. Additionally, we provide airline passenger carriers and cargo operators line maintenance and AOG services.

Our newly remodeled hangar and shop complex is fully equipped to handle all manner of repair.

Our technicians are excellent at troubleshooting. A methodical approach helps to quickly identify and repair problems so you can get back in the air with confidence the job was done right.

Thousands of parts fill our fully stocked parts room and it holds all of the common items our customers require for their routine maintenance.
